

Executive English Confidence

A 12-week intensive 1:1 programme for experienced professionals who already speak English - and want to communicate with greater confidence, clarity and ease.

You probably don't need another English course.
You need the English you already have to be available when it matters - in meetings, presentations, calls and conversations.

Your 12-week programme

- ✓ 11 × 60-minute individual coaching sessions
Conversation is at the centre. We work with your real professional topics, situations and communication challenges.
- ✓ 30-minute introductory call
We clarify your goals, starting point and the situations in which you want to feel more confident.
- ✓ Minimum 330 personalised wordings
After every coaching session you receive at least 30 individual words, phrases and formulations - selected from our conversation and tailored to you.
- ✓ Email + Quizlet follow-up
Your individual language is documented after each session and made available for review and active practice.
- ✓ Two books included
You receive two of my books as supporting material. Selected content from Cambridge University Press may also be used where appropriate.
- ✓ Certificate with English level
At the end of the programme, you receive a certificate documenting your participation and assessed English level.
- ✓ 30-minute wrap-up & personal action plan
We review your progress and define practical next steps so that you can continue building confidence after the programme.

The result

By the end of the programme, you will have spent around 12 hours actively speaking English about the topics that matter in your professional life. The aim is not to work through a generic syllabus, but to make your English more spontaneous, precise and readily available when you need it.

Speak like yourself. Lead with confidence. In English.

Is this programme for you?

Executive English Confidence is designed for experienced professionals and executives with an existing foundation in English who want to become more spontaneous, precise and confident in professional communication. It is particularly useful when international meetings, presentations, leadership conversations or a new role make English increasingly important.

If you are at the beginning of your career and looking for support with your English, please feel free to contact me. We can find an individual solution that fits your situation and goals.

Looking for English training for your company or team?

I also work with companies and teams, offering tailored Business English and communication training. Please contact me to discuss your requirements and an individual programme.

Ready to discuss your English?

Tell me what is currently challenging you - an important meeting, a presentation, a new international role or simply the feeling that your English does not yet reflect who you are professionally.

Book your 30-minute introductory call - in English or German.
